Speaker

Elizabeth B. McGrath, DNP, APRN, ACACNP-BC, AOCNP, ACHPN

Elizabeth has served for over 35 years as an oncology nurse practitioner with extensive experience in the clinical care of patients in medical and radiation oncology. She also has extensive teaching experience in providing education to oncology nurses and providing two Oncology Certified Nurse (OCN®) review courses annually in the Northeast. Elizabeth is asked to speak regionally on various topics in oncology in her area. She also serves as an associate professor of medicine at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth, NH, an affiliate associate professor in the DNP program at Northeastern University in Boston, MA, and an adjunct faculty member in the graduate nursing program at Colby-Sawyer College in New London, NH. She serves on the educational planning committee for the regional Medical Oncology Society and is on the faculty for the Vizient Nurse Residency Program at Dartmouth.

MED-ED reserves the right to substitute an equally qualified speaker if necessary.

Course Overview

This program is designed for transplant and cellular therapy oncology nurses preparing for the Oncology Nursing Certification Corporation BMTCN Exam. The review follows the 2022 BMTCN content outline. Concepts include foundations of transplant, transplant process and infusion, early and late transplant management and education, quality of life and professional performance. This is not an introductory program but a comprehensive review of TCT oncology practice.

Program Learning Outcomes

This program prepares the learner to:

- Discuss and practice test-taking skills and strategies.
- Review the basic concepts for pre- and post-transplantation.
- Identify the nurse's role in the management and care of BMT patients across the transplant trajectory.
- Discuss the clinical presentation and evidence-based interventions of common issues in BMT.
- Identify Identify key survivorship issues in BMT and professional oncology practice.
