Speaker

Nancy Mannion, DNP, RN, CEN, FAEN

Nancy has an extensive career as a nurse leader, educator and consultant. She is an in-demand lecturer with years of presenting to diverse audiences on topics ranging from clinical care to leadership, who has also been published extensively. Nancy has worked in emergency care environments ranging from small rural hospitals to large urban medical centers. In any setting, she is viewed as an engaging, thoughtful leader. She calls upon her cumulative experiences to bring fresh insights to her clients. In addition to these accomplishments, Nancy has extensive experience in association leadership and has earned her DNP with a focus on leadership.

MED-ED reserves the right to substitute an equally qualified speaker if necessary.

Course Overview

This course is geared toward new charge nurses or charge nurses that would like to kick their skills up a notch. Most charge nurses are promoted because of their clinical skills but are lacking in the other basic skills they need to lead in today's shifting healthcare environment. This course will cover basics such as communication, conflict management, budgeting, relevant laws and other important concepts of leadership.

Program Learning Outcomes

This program prepares the learner to:

- Identify the key components of transformational and servant leadership.
- Discuss the basic components of error-free communication.
- Practice a script that will be useful for addressing any form of conflict or disruptive behavior.
- Identify the most common barriers to successful change in an organization.
- Have the beginning of a personal professional development plan.
